One Aldwych is an award-winning, contemporary luxury hotel with an unbeatable location. Set in Covent Garden amongst theatres, buzzing shops and restaurants, the hotel is also a stone's throw away from the capital's financial district.

Offering the utmost in comfort combined with warm professional service, One Aldwych is a playful mix of thoughtful touches and fun quirky art – the hotel's private collection stretches to over 400 pieces.

The stunning Edwardian building with its elegant architecture was originally commissioned in 1907 as the home of the Morning Post newspaper. This Mewes & Davis creation is unusual in its triangular "cake-slice" shape and the coppered cupola dome and cornices lend it a distinctly European feel.

One Aldwych is a responsible hotel and considers the environment, the hotel's employees and the local community in all of its operations. These efforts have resulted in the hotel being awarded the Luxury Eco Certification Standard (LECS) in association with The Leading Hotels of the World. The hotel is proud to be one of only six hotels to gain this independently assessed accreditation worldwide, the first in the UK.
